Plenty of goals were scored on and off the ice at Mitford Ponds Jan. 10 at the first Kimmett Cup.

The three-on-three hockey tournament was created in memory of Lindsay Kimmett, who was killed in a car accident in 2008, as a fundraiser for the Lindsay Leigh Kimmett Foundation. About $8,000 was raised.

Weather was perfect for the games, with temperatures just below freezing and little wind.

"I think that was a blessing. Lindsay was definitely smiling down on us from above," said organizer Jason Baserman.

The games took place on three rinks, and featured miniature nets designed to emphasize puck handling, resulting in many final scores in the teens.

In the final game, The Misfits defeated the Puck Junkies Eh! in a shootout to claim the cup.

With 20 teams registered and hundreds of participants, organizers Baserman and Joe MacLellan were definitely ready to consider it a success.

"Personally I think it's both a testament to both Lindsay and the Kimmett family, and the great community you have here in Cochrane," Baserman said, adding he's looking forward to planning another tournament.

Hundreds came out to raise money for the first annual Kimmett Cup.
