Message from Dianne & Kelly Kimmitt (Lindsay's Parents)

Lindsay Kimmitt was a member of the U of C Medical Class of 2009. Sadly she was killed in a motor vehicle accident in 2008 before she was able to realize her dream of being an Emergency Physician. She was an active member of Friday afternoon hockey and the captain of the Macaques girls hockey team. In fact, she had taken a group of non-hockey players and taught them the game. Their first win came at the Atrophy Cup in 2008.

She shared her competitive hockey drive with Joe MacLellan (a member of her class) and met Jason Baserman (a member of the class of 2014) on those Friday afternoon skates. They discussed how much fun it would be to host a pond hockey tournament. Joe and Jason have carried through on that discussion and this past weekend hosted the 4th Annual Kimmitt Cup. This year 32 teams participated in the outdoor pond hockey tournament in Cochrane. The pond area becomes a village for the day of the tournament. Players come and go, friends and family gather to watch, spectators warm themselves around fire pits, the entire area is alive with music, hotdogs are devoured, a local church group sells their homemade goodies, crowds gather to chat and bid on the silent auction items and finally a wrap up party is held to award trophies to the winners. At the end of the day all proceeds benefit the Lindsay Leigh Kimmitt Memorial Foundation. This year over $24,000.00 will be directed to the Lindsay Virtual Human project – a collaborative project at the University of Calgary between the Evolutionary & Swarm Design Laboratory of the Department of Computer Science in the Faculty of Science and Undergraduate Medical Education in conjunction with the Virtual Medical Education Unit in the Faculty of Medicine. The LINDSAY project provides a collection of biological models and computational tools for research and learning in the context of human anatomy and physiology.

John Webb: Team Incredibles Player #25

From behind-the-scenes to the game's puck-drop, the tournament is a balance between the Day and the Memory.

I have attended Kimmett Cup as first a fan, then a participant, a volunteer, and eventually an enlightened combination of all three. This enlightenment reached me as the energy of the KC day and passion of Lindsay's legacy blended together to create what I believe is the essence of the Kimmett Cup.

I didn't know Lindsay, but I do now. Her friends, her family, her community all carry her spirit, and with each round of Kimmett Cup involvement I am able to connect with her; I grow closer to her enthusiasm, her passion, and her love of life. KC4 allowed me to once again find Lindsay. The carving of ice, the crashing of sticks, the celebration, applause, laughter, eventually it all grew into reminiscing over past KC tournaments, stories with friends, new and old, the Cup, the Banquet, the overwhelming emotion brining tears for the Day, for the Memory, and for the hope that this tradition will never end.

In a culmination of everything the KC community has come to stand for, I felt chills roll through me as the cheers from hundreds, all wearing the number 25, met the photographer as he captured what the Kimmett Cup means to me; the tournament wide group shot will forever remind me that even from the deep sadness of loss, the human spirit is capable of anything, everything, and more.
